1. Colloquium: Early Modern Women Writers' Colloquium

(Department of English Studies, University of Cyprus, Northern Arizona University, CVAR, Othello' s Island, March 25-27, 2018)

The aim for 2018 is for the Early Modern Women Writers' Colloquium to be open-minded, allowing a diverse range of approaches and topics related to Renaissance and early modern women to be discussed. This might include the lives of women during the periods, the work of specific women writers or other women artists, or the role and activity of women in wider society and culture. In the case of women writers and artists, this might also include consideration of their contemporary and posthumous reputations.

2. Workshop: Elisabeth of Bohemia – Women and Early Modern Philosophy

(Frauen in der Geschichte der Philosophie, Center for the History of Women Philosophers and Scientists, May 17, 2018)

The aim of the workshop is to promote communication and collaboration amongst younger scholars working on women philosophers of the early modern period. We welcome submissions relating to Elisabeth of Bohemia's letter exchanges and intellectual networks and to the conditions and challenges of women's participation in the development of early modern philosophy. The workshop will be led by Sabrina Ebbersmeyer, Sarah Hutton and Ruth Hagengruber.

3. Conference: Elisabeth of Bohemia (1618-1680) – Life and Legacy. Philosophy, Politics and Religion in Seventeenth Century Europe

(Center for the History of Women Philosophers and Scientists, Deutsche Gesellschaft Philosophie e.v., Fritz Thyssen Stiftung, May 18-20, 2018)

Elisabeth of Bohemia (also known as Elisabeth of the Palatinate) was one of the most famous scholarly women of the 17th century, who is best known today for her correspondence with the René Descartes. But it is only recently that she has begun to be considered as a thinker in her own right. The conference aims to produce a new evaluation of Elisabeth by setting her in the context of the most Intellectual, religious, political and historical currents her time. The conference will be held jointly at Paderborn University and nearby Herford, where Elisabeth spent her last years as Princess Abbess.

4. Summer School: Libori Summer School

(Center for the History of Women Philosophers and Scientists, July 29 – August 3, 2018)

The Center History of Women Philosophers and Scientists announces the 2nd Libori Summer School 2018 on Women Philosophers and Scientists. In these parallel, intensive courses, featuring experts in the specific areas, we challenge the philosophical canon by showing how to incorporate the ideas of women philosophers and scientists via their texts and discuss new issues and topics in the field.
