LIBORI | SUMMER
2017 | SCHOOL

JULY 23 TO 28

FROM OUR DIRECTOR

As director of the research project Center for the History of Women Philosophers and Scientists at Paderborn University I am especially proud to announce our First Libori Summer School for international undergraduates, graduate students, and university scholars. My interest in the integration of women philosophers and scholars already began in the 1990s. In 2006, I established the teaching and research area “History of Women Philosophers and Scientists” here in Paderborn. Since then, seminars, conferences, academic events, and dissertation projects have been offered. Over the years, many internationally renowned scholars have contributed to the constantly-widening spectrum of seminars on women philosophers and scientists in my teaching and research area. A decade later, the project Center for the History of Women Philosophers and Scientists funded by the Ministry of Innovation, Science and Research of the State of North Rhine-Westphalia, was launched in May 2016. With six research positions dedicated to the study of women philosophers and scientists from different epochs, the Center is one of the world’s leading institutions in that field.

With our Libori Summer School, we are celebrating more than 2600 years of women philosophers. Important knowledge in the history of women philosophers and scientists has been gained over the past thirty years, more than in any other field of research in the history of philosophy and science. The writings of the women prove to be important components of our cultural history, so that the narrative of a supposed tradition, where women are scarce or non-existent, is revised.

Join us in celebrating, investigating, and discussing women philosophers and scientists of various eras during Paderborn's festive season in the very heart of Germany and enjoy one of five parallel state-of-the-art courses held by leading experts in specified areas.

I am looking forward to meeting you at the Libori Summer School from July 23 to 28, 2017.

Prof. Dr. Ruth Hagengruber
Founder and director

Prof. Dr. Mary Ellen Waithe
Main advisor

MaryEllenWaithe, main advisor to the Center, is a former professor and chair at the Department of Philosophy and Comparative Religion at the Cleveland State University in Ohio and one of the most outstanding scholars in the field “History of Women Philosophers and Scientists”. With her groundbreaking four volumes of the publication: “A History of Women Philosophers“, she created a thorough overview over these women's influence in philosophy, which is highly praised by leading experts. Mary Ellen Waithe directs the “Society for the Study of Women Philosophers” which promotes the scholarship for and about women philosophers. In the biannual Libori Summer School and Autumn School, she will be the keynote speaker and an honorary guest. For her, “Paderborn is a unique place to study the History of Women Philosophers and Scientists”

In my position as the manager of the project Center for the History of Women Philosophers and Scientists, I am very honored to welcome guests to our First International Libori Summer School 2017 at Paderborn University. Among other things, I am organizing the Libori Summer School which will be an annual event at Paderborn University. We proudly welcome national and international scholars and students here in Paderborn. In addition to the organization of our events, I am the administrator of the entire project Center for the History of Women Philosophers and Scientists. Therefore, I am the contact person for our team as well as for you, who are interested in our Libori Summer School 2017 and doing research at the Center. Since it is our goal to ensure a most pleasant stay at the Libori Summer School, please do not hesitate to contact me regarding all administrative issues:

The Libori Summer School offers five parallel courses led by internationally recognized experts in this field. All courses will be held in English. Participation is free.

DESCRIPTION

This is the second course led by Prof. Dr. Mary Ellen Waithe based on the second book of her four volumes “A History of Women Philosophers”, where the instructor of this class, Prof. Dr. Mary Ellen Waithe, created a thorough overview over female thinkers, authors, and scientists within the history of philosophy. Together with her special guest Reverend Dr. Conley, who will give an insight into the Arnauld women’s philosophy, the instructor will read, investigate, and discuss the works of Women Philosophers of the Medieval and Renaissance Periods. Particular emphasis will also be placed on Hildegard of Bingen. From July 19 to July 21, 2017, preceding the course, a “Hildegard of Bingen Guided Tour” will be offered to interested students and scholars. Within

1. WOMEN PHILOSOPHERS MEDIEVAL AND RENAISSANCE PERIODS

2. ÉMILIE DU CHÂTELET ON MATTER, BODIES, FORCES, AND MOTION PART II

DESCRIPTION

The Libori Summer School “Émilie Du Châtelet: Matter, Bodies, Forces, Motion” aims to take a closer look at the complexities and interrelations between metaphysical reasoning, mathematical demonstrative methodology, and experimental philosophy beyond the outdated empiricism-rationalism scheme, focusing on the conceptual foundations and formations of theories of motion. This development can be best understood as emancipation from Cartesianism, Newtonianism, and Leibnizianism. Émilie Du Châtelet played a key role for this foundational change. Encouraged by the reception of Newton’s Principia in France after 1730 by Voltaire and Pierre Louis Moreau de Maupertuis and by the experimental results obtained by Willem Jacob's Gravesande, Du Châtelet constructed an advanced interpretation of Galileo’s experimental results in terms of early Leibnizian notions. An interpretation that was independent from Leibniz’ later metaphysics.

DESCRIPTION

Since its inception, the phenomenological movement has attracted and promoted the thoughts of women. This course will introduce students to the works of three women in early phenomenology: Hedwig Conrad-Martius, Edith Stein, and Gerda Walther. The characteristics that make each of these women interesting are not only their criticisms of Husserl, but their original contributions to phenomenological philosophy. After presenting a brief overview of Husserl's philosophy, and the points that divided the "realist" and the "pure" phenomenologists, key texts from each of these women will be read and discussed. We will also discuss the biographies of these women, and how their life experiences and their philosophies are intertwined. Topics will include: the realism/idealism debate, being and reality, the status of the I, the concept of the person, empathy, and the essence of religious experience.

3. WOMEN PHENOMENOLOGISTS OF THE EARLY 20TH CENTURY

4. HELENE DRUSKOWITZ AND MODERN MISANDRY

DESCRIPTION

Some would argue, that misandry (man-hating), though more covertly than misogyny, has always been present in the public discourse of our civilization. However, around the end of the 19th century we have two different movements arising: feminism and misandry.

The focus of our investigation will be on Helene (von) Druskowitz (1856–1918). Her initial enthusiasm for Nietzsche and his philosophical positions were soon replaced by resentment and disillusionment. She turned into a severe critic of his works. As an antithesis to Nietzsche's antifeminist positions, Druskowitz formed her radically feminist position that culminates in her work "Pessimistic Cardinal Propositions –

Man as a Logical and Moral Impossibility" from 1905. In it, she depicts a dark futuristic philosophical anti-utopia in which men are destroying the world and fantasizes about the world that would flourish, if it were solely inhabited by women. With such radical positions, she was more than 60 years ahead of her time.

A DEPRESSING TRUTH: SO MANY COUNTRIES, WHERE WOMEN ARE WORTH NOTHING

Research was carried out in Afghanistan, in India, in Eastern Congo and in international refugee camps in Turkey, Lebanon, Jordan and on the Greek island of Lesbos.

STORIES, BACKGROUNDS, POLITICAL SITUATIONS AND MOTIONS

A UN-list stood at the beginning. The title of the list: Countries in which it is the greatest danger to be born as a girl. The list started with Afghanistan, followed by India, the Congo and so on. A nightmare. Girls and women are worth nothing, they are condemned to an early death.

In the Libori Summer School Maria von Welser, an internationally renowned TV-journalist and now a successful publicist, will present the outrageous life-situation of women and children in these countries. Every day another country, following the UN-list.

Maria von Welser also traveled into Turkey, the Lebanon, to Jordan and on the Greek island of Lesbos. Where she found women and children in a devastating situation. Being refugees between the borders. After a horrible escape from Syria, Iraq, Afghanistan and Pakistan, they are now living in camps where there is no way back or forwards for them. Because Europe closed its borders. The most men went first, sitting now in camps, for example in Germany, waiting to be granted asylum.

The participants of these seminars will not only find out a lot about the political backgrounds, but hear as well the stories of refugee-women, children, their families and the situation they are confronted with. This seminar should give you a picture of the life-situation, many women and children are still today forced to live in.

CREDITS & APPLICATION

Credit points will be awarded for successful participation in the courses, comprising of 30 contact hours (3 ECTS) and the composition of a 20-page paper related to the contents of the respective course (3 ECTS). The students will be expected to participate in the plenary presentations and discussions.

International students, whose credit system differs from the European system, can earn an additional ECTS-point if it allows them to translate the ECTS into their national system (e.g. 7 ECTS are generally translated into 4 SCH). To acquire the additional ECTS-point, the students will be required to prepare a presentation on a related current research-project in the field of HWPS. If possible, introducing a project of the scholar's own university would be ideal. This presentation should be prepared in English and be no longer than 20 minutes before discussion.

As a student from outside of the European ECTS-Cooperation of Erasmus, if you wish to receive credit for your Summer School course, you will need to contact either your Study Abroad Office or the office in your university that deals with external credit. We strongly advise you to do this before you apply. Since it is up to your home institution to decide how much credit will be awarded, as credits are not printed on Summer School transcripts. The numbers offered in this statement are based on average calculations, but the awarded ECTS need to be converted by your Study Abroad Office or corresponding office individually.

TO APPLY, PLEASE SEND THE FOLLOWING BY JULY 15TH, 2017

1. A brief curriculum vitae of no more than two pages.
